Abstract (Provide Details of the Topic and limit to 150 words)	Innovation in Software Testing is increasing in a reverse pyramid model which is very risky for future of Software Quality. Before inventing some more new processes/tools we have to recheck how strong we are in practicing our Software Testing Fundamental processes. With my experience I have observed that a lot of gap is there between the fundamental testing practices to be followed and that are being followed in the industry. Because of the crazy Hype on innovation, less preference is given to the roots of the Software Testing. Number of tools that we invented should not be the measure for Software Testing growth, Quality achieved should be the ultimate measurement. It is the time to rebuild our Software Testing. I have written a white paper which strongly suggests 10 Quality Actions to be taken to Rebuild Quality Assurance.
